

Credit Consensus Indicator (CCI) UK, EU & US Industrials

April 2021

Credit Benchmark's monthly measure of credit risk sentiment and activity draws on the collective intelligence of over 20,000 analysts at 40+ of the world's leading financial institutions.

This measure, known as the Credit Benchmark Credit Consensus Indicator (CCI), shows changes in forward looking credit opinion for aggregated Industrials across the US, UK, and EU.

UK Industrials: On the Cusp

UK Industrial companies may not yet be in positive net credit territory, but they are inching closer.

This month's CCI is 49.9, a positive change from last month's CCI of 49.1.

Though the trend is moving in the right direction, negative influences still remain in the UK including the ongoing effects of the pandemic, spillover effects from financial industry problems, and multiple problems including Brexit.

EU Industrials: Lingering Deterioration

The positive CCI reading from late 2020 now looks more like a temporary blip as EU Industrial firms continue to register a negative CCI, though the severity remains modest.

This month's CCI is 47.6, a worsening from last month's CCI of 49.3.

The EU is facing some headwinds, yet there are signs it is adapting to restrictions and problems may be less severe than anticipated.

US Industrials: Back-to-Back Improvement

US Industrial companies have registered a positive CCI reading for a second month running, making this the first back-to-back positive CCI since December 2018/January 2019.

The US CCI is 51.4 this month, up from 50.6 last month.

Supply chain issues may be an obstacle in the near term. Still, the overall outlook is robust in a variety of ways, and may yet get a boost from investment in infrastructure of various types.
